■ On the last countdown...

Young Fund donations came from near and far

Donations have come from as far away as Pennsylvania and Washington state for the Jeffrey Young Fund, which was set up to help a 14-year-old Elk Point youth to travel to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota.

Young is slated to leave in early May for further testing on the rare form of epilepsy which racks his body with multiple seizures each day.

Glenn Harms said he "can't believe" some of the donations that have come in. "Some have given everything they can give." He is also amazed by the far-flung response to the plea for assistance, which has seen donations come from several US states as well as closer to home.

Just under $25,000 has been collected, despite a sudden drop in the Canadian dollar, which meant the fund lost close to $1500 before the funds could be moved to the safety of an American funds account. Harms feels this is a huge accomplishment for a small community which depends largely on the ups and downs of the oil industry for its income.

Arrangements have been made with the airlines to obtain tickets, and everything is "on the last countdown," Harms says. "They could theoretically get a call any time."

Sherry Young says her son's appointment has been set for May 14, but they could be going sooner than that. They are on a cancellation list, and "hopefully we would get five to ten days notice" if someone cancels and they can get in sooner.

More donations would still be welcome, and can be delivered to the Servus Credit Unions in both Elk Point and St. Paul or dropped off at ReMax Lakeland Realty.

Barn, home destroyed by fires

It's been a busy week for Elk Point's volunteer fire department, with two major blazes less than a week apart, and the risk of grass fires increasing with the strong spring winds and increasingly dry conditions.

On Sunday, March 25, strong winds whipped a fire which destroyed a barn in a farmyard south of Elk Point owned by John Maksymec.

Another fire consumed a home on 48 Avenue near the Catholic Church shortly before the dinner hour on Saturday, March 30.

The fire department is bracing for a rash of grass fires, which crop up every spring despite burning bans.

Fire Chief Ken Palamarek urges Elk Point and district residents to be extremely careful with flammable materials during these very dry spring conditions.

Elk Point waiting list short for senior housing

Elk Point seniors face a much shorter waiting list for seniors housing than do their St. Paul counterparts.

Only eight names are on the Heritage Lodge list, as compared to more than eight times that many in St. Paul, where 68 people are waiting for accommodation at Sunnyside Manor.

Marcel Landry, chair of the MD of St. Paul Foundation Board, said the MD Foundation has put in a request for more funding to build additional lodging to the Province's new Seniors Minister, Stan Woloshyn.

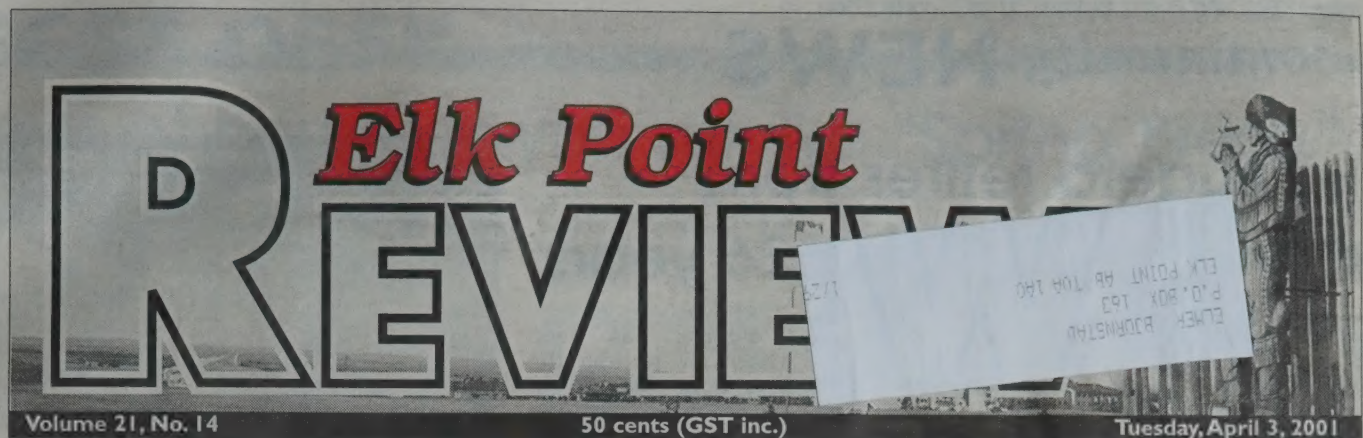

When Landry tried to get some answers from the ministry, he was told those waiting for lodging could enter facilities that are empty in other parts of the province.

"It is pretty hard to convince our seniors to move to Bow Island when their families live here," said Landry.

Heritage Lodge has now passed the final inspection on its renovation project.

LIONS ASSIST YOUNG FAMILY - Lion Jonny Nielsen presented a cheque from the Elk Point and District Lions Club to Sherry Young, mother of epilepsy victim Jeffrey Young, to go toward the cost of taking Jeffrey to the Mayo Clinic for tests.

Ed Bugera retires from Canada Post after 26 years

Ed Bugera has sold his last stamps and sorted his last bundle of mail. He retired from his position at Elk Point Post Office last Friday, after 26 years on the job, with numerous Post Office patrons stopping by to wish him the best on his retirement.

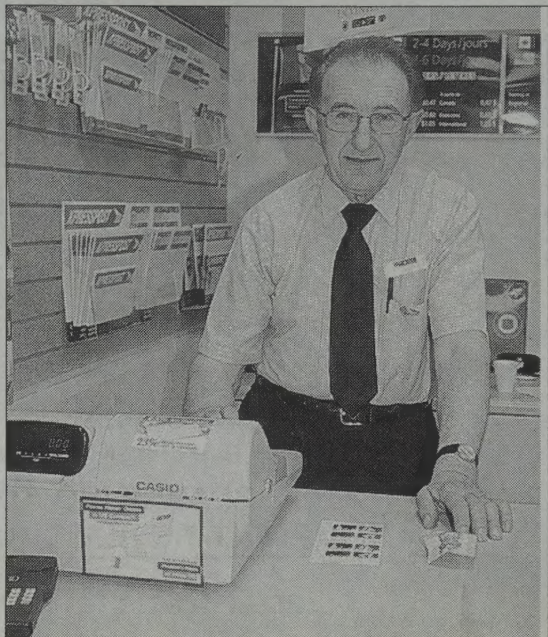

Postmistress Coral Tremblay and fellow workers Lillian Ewasiuk, Celina Balke and June Kachmar presented Bugera with a set of collector coins and added their good wishes. Mrs. Ewasiuk has worked with Bugera for the past 23 years and says she will be the next to retire, a few years from now.

Bugera's wife, Maryann, is looking forward to having him home, and says that for the majority of their married lives, both of them worked off the farm. Bugera spent 18 years with Imperial Lumber and one and a half years with the Toronto Dominion Bank before coming to work at the post office. Mrs. Bugera even hinted that they might find time in the future for such pursuits as bowling and ballroom dancing which have not fit in to their busy lifestyle.

Bugera says he will miss his co-workers and the patrons he served each day, but is sure he will find lots to keep him busy around the farm, from keeping a closer eye on his cow herd to pruning trees.

Bugera has been cheerfully putting the Elk Point Review in your mailbox for the past 17 years, and we at the Review want to joins the rest of the community in wishing Bugera a happy retirement.

LAST DAY ON THE JOB - Ed Bugera punched in one of his last sales of stamps on the Canada Post cash register, last Friday, after 26 years of attending to Elk Point and district's postal service requirements.

Calling clubs and organizations - Volunteer Week coming soon!

Volunteer Week is only a few weeks away, and the Elk Point Review wants to recognize the volunteers who work so hard to keep all these groups going.

From Red Cross canvassers and Meals on Wheels delivery persons to minor sports coaches and the parents who man the concession booth at the arena, we want to hear what your group is doing.

Please drop the Review a note and tell us the name of your organization, how many members you have, what kind of volunteer activities you're involved with, from working at bingo's to cleaning up highway ditches, and if possible, an estimate of how many volunteer hours your members have contributed during the past twelve months. We would also like to hear what you do for fun, and especially how you reward your volunteers for all their efforts. You can include a photo of your club at work if you wish. Photos will be returned.

Elk Point is a community where volunteer efforts have accomplished incredible results over the years, from the Charlene Baker Memorial Arena to the Seniors Recreation Centre, and have raised huge amounts of money to help with every sort of need.

But volunteers do not need to be part of a group to be recognized. We also want to hear about local people who volunteer on their own, rather than as part of a group. Just tell us who the volunteer is and what service that person provides as a volunteer. Send along a picture of the volunteer in action if you wish - photos will be returned.

Our local volunteers do a fantastic job, and we want to make sure they and their efforts are recognized.

Please send your information to Box 309, Elk Point, fax it to 724-2144 or drop it off at the Review office by April 19 so we can include it in the Review's special Volunteer Week edition.

from the FCSS DESKSharing love at home as you survive "Spring Break"

By Deanna Easthope
FCSS Director

Did you all survive "spring break" with all your children at home? Survival of "spring break" is really just another word for spending more time with the children... right! Anyway, I hope it was a positive experience for everyone. Spending time with our children reminds me of the statement, "love at home." There is a story of two brothers by an unknown author that makes sense.

Two brothers worked together on the family farm. One was married and had a large family. The other was single. At the day's end, the brothers shared everything equally, produce and profit. Then one day the single brother said to himself, "It's not right that we should share equally the produce and the profit. I'm alone and my needs are simple." So each night he took a sack of grain from his bin and crept across the field between their houses, dumping it into his brother's bin.

Meanwhile, the married brother said to himself, "It's not right that we should share the produce and profit equally. After all, I'm married and I have my wife and children to look after me in years to come. My brother has no one, and no one to take care of his future. So each night he took a sack of grain and dumped it into his single brother's bin. Both men were puzzled for years because their supply of grain never dwindled. Then one dark night the two brothers bumped into each other. Slowly it dawned on them what was happening. They dropped their sacks and embraced each other.

I like that story because it illustrates when we think of the other person's needs rather than their own, love grows. And... where else is this demonstrated best, but in our own families. Once a person feels and shares love within their own family, they can reach out to the community around them.

For example, there is a story by Meladee McCarty who tells about a little girl who asked her mother what she was doing. "I'm making a casserole for Mrs. Smith next door," said her mother. "Why?" the little girl asked. The mother then explained that "Mrs. Smith is our neighbor and we need to take care of her for a little while. You see, she lost her daughter. Mrs. Smith won't ever be able to talk with her daughter or hug her or do all those wonderful things that mommies and daughters do together." The little girl felt sad for Mrs. Smith and wanted to help.

The little girl went to Mrs. Smith's house and she knocked on the door. "What can I do for you?" asked Mrs. Smith. "My mommy says that you lost your daughter and you're very, very sad with a broken heart." The little girl held out her hand shyly. In it was a Band-Aid. "This is for your broken heart." Mrs. Smith gasped, choking back her tears. She knelt down and hugged the little girl. Through her tears, she said, "Thank you, darling girl, this will help a lot." Mrs. Smith accepted the little girl's act of kindness and took it one step further. She purchased a small key ring with a plexiglass picture frame and placed the little girl's Band-Aid in the frame to remind herself to heal a little every time she sees it. ... Yes, love at home is a treasure to share.

Thanks to emergency medical services

April 1 to 7 is Emergency Medical Services Awareness Week, a good time to say thanks to the crews who stand ready to help us when emergency situations occur.

We often tend to take such amenities as ground and air ambulance service, the rescue van, the fire department and the police for granted, but in reality, we are very fortunate to have these people and their equipment available at a moment's notice when we need them.

Theirs are not easy jobs to do - emergency personnel require considerable training to be able to respond appropriately to the needs of a crash victim or someone with a life-threatening medical condition. They have to think fast and act quickly to stabilize the patient and get them on their way to hospital as rapidly as possible. Sometimes this involves cutting apart a vehicle to get the victim out, or putting out a fire so they can go in and find a victim in a burning building. The police have to secure the scene of a crash to permit emergency crews to do their job and prevent other vehicles from becoming part of the wreckage.

Thanks to all our emergency medical service providers. You do a great job all year round and the community appreciates you, even if we often forget to tell you so.

Foot and Mouth Disease

By Leon Benoit, MP
Lakeland Constituency

Many constituents have contacted my office to express their fear that the foot-and-mouth disease could spread to Canada. I can certainly understand that fear. Like other Canadians, I have watched the disturbing television scenes of overseas farmers losing their livelihood and farms to foot-and-mouth disease. I know that if foot-and-mouth enters Canada, the export market for almost all our livestock would be immediately curtailed.

Since the outbreak of this disease in the United Kingdom, I, and many of my Canadian Alliance colleagues have talked to officials in the Agriculture Department, the Agriculture Minister, veterinarians - anyone with expertise in this area. We have been adamant that all measures be taken to keep this disease out of Canada. We have called on the government to step up the inspection activities of both the Canadian Food Inspection Agency and Canada Customs and Revenue Agency.

One of the Agriculture Minister's top officials assured me personally that as a result of a large conference call, inspections of travelers from countries which are known to have the disease will be substantially increased. We have also received assurances from the Canadian and British military. I can assure you that I, and my Canadian Alliance colleagues, will do what we can to pressure the government to ensure that travelers do not bring this disease into Canada.

Here are some of the precautions that should be taken to prevent the spread of this disease to Canada.

What can the Canadian public do to help prevent the spread of Foot and Mouth Disease to Canada?

When entering Canada you must:

■ Declare all meat, dairy or other animal products that you are bringing back to Canada.

■ If you visited a farm while abroad, make sure that the clothing and footwear you wore during your visit are free from soil and manure. Clean and disinfect your footwear. Dry clean all your clothing.

■ Stay away from Canadian farms for 14 days (as recommended by the World Organization for Animal Health) after returning to Canada.

If you farm in Canada:

■ Prevent farm or ranch visits by anyone who has been to countries with active Foot and Mouth disease in the last 14 days. Although humans are not susceptible to Foot and Mouth Disease, they can serve as carriers.

■ If visitors come to the farm they should take additional sanitary precautions such as washing and disinfecting all personal effects and equipment that had accompanied them on their trip. It is particularly important to clean and disinfect footwear.

■ A solution of 50 percent water and 50 percent vinegar is adequate disinfection for the FMD virus.

■ Livestock owners should increase cautionary measures to protect their own herds. For example:

- Farmers must exercise caution before allowing visitors on farms. All visitors must be made aware of the risks of transmitting the disease, and follow additional precautions.

- Visitors must take additional sanitary precautions such as washing and disinfecting of all personal effects and equipment that had accompanied them. It is particularly important to clean and disinfect footwear. All visitors, including veterinarians and livestock buyers, should use footwear provided by the farm instead of their own.

- Organizers of shows and events may take extra precautions such as installing disinfectant footbaths/footmats at the entrance of show facilities.

■ Our Past

My first National Hockey League game

By Steve Andrishak
Review Contributor

It was in the fall of 1938 when I caught a train to Edmonton to see my first NHL game - an exhibition game between the New York Rangers and the New York Americans.

At that time there were only six teams in the NHL. They were the Toronto Maple Leafs, the Montreal Canadiens, the Boston Bruins, the New York Rangers, the New York Americans, and either Detroit or Chicago.

The other two founding teams, the Ottawa Senators and Montreal Maroons, had previously folded for various reasons.

Edmonton had always been, and still is, a hot bed for raising NHL players. Two of Edmonton's better known players were Neil and Mac Colville who both played with the New York Rangers in 1938 as well as their teammate Alex Shibicky. The team was coached by Lester Patrick, a brother to Frank Patrick who at one time was a Ranger "great".

After arriving in Edmonton I looked up a friend. When I got there, a party was in session, one that lasted most of the day. When I left about seven in the evening I was feeling no pain.

Somehow I managed to catch the right street car to the old Edmonton Gardens and after a lot of difficulty and a lot of extra steps I managed to find my seat. Just prior to this, I had bumped into Dr. F. G. Miller and his wife who were also attending the game. In the condition I was in, he was the last person I wanted to meet. It was truly an embarrassing experience. I'm sure he knew I had too much to drink.

The Edmonton arena had about 5000 seats and they were filled to capacity. Edmonton in 1938 had a population of only about 60,000 people. I wasn't impressed with the Edmonton arena. It was old and run down and had a number of huge pillars which supported the roof and interfered with your view of the game.

The game, what I saw of it, proved to be very exciting. I don't remember which team won, or the names of the participating players outside the Colvilles who played for the Rangers and a Calgary-raised player called Dave "Sweeney" Schreiner who played with the New York Americans.

As I missed a lot of the game, the next day I bought a five cent Edmonton Bulletin and got caught up with the highlights of the game that I had missed.

A couple of days later when I got home I met the doctor and we talked about the game - with the information I got from the Bulletin, I was able to carry on a conversation without any problems.

I first met Dr. F. G. Miller during the winter of 1925. The doctor himself was a good, rugged player and the day I met him he was playing for Elk Point against Mooswa (now Lindbergh).

Dr. F. G. Miller was a great sportsman. He coached and managed our hockey team for about seven years prior to World War II. I greatly admired him as did all the members of our team.

Life after hockey season?

By Doug Bassett

Review Sports

"Oh, the good old hockey game, it's the best game you can name, and the best game you can name, is the good old hockey game."

It's sad, but true, minor hockey is over for another year. This coming Saturday night we will celebrate with the annual Elk Point Minor Hockey potluck supper and minor hockey awards banquet at the Elks Hall at 6 p.m. This is the time to get together one last time and recap about the season, present awards, and don't forget about the potluck dinner, it's always great. After the banquet, there will be a very short meeting to elect next year's executive.

Is there life after hockey? It's tough, believe me, I know, but yes, there is. Just when you think you may get a break, the soccer season is about to kick off, and how about baseball? The season opened for the majors on the weekend, and it's about time for us to get organized. This coming Thursday night, April 5, the Elk Point Minor Ball will have its first organization meeting and regustratuions at 7 p.m. at the A. G. Ross Arena. All interested coaches and parents are asked to attend.

And it's time once again for the Keith Campbell sports trivia question of the week. What team once traded a hockey player for another team's bus? Last week's trivia answer: Don Cherry played one game for the Boston Bruins vs Montreal Canadiens in the 1955 playoffs.

Extra funds enhance community grants

Smoky Lake - Lakeland Regional Health Authority's Action for Health program has received an additional $77,000 from Alberta Health and Wellness to enhance health promotion projects that focus on children and/or youth.

"With just a month go before the first Community Grant application deadline (April 30, 2001), we'd like residents to know that a portion of this new funding will be allocated to the Community Grant program, advises Betty Gray, Action for Health administrative assistant. "Children and youth projects already make up a lot of the grant funding awarded each year, this new money will enable us to support even more projects."

Since 1996, Community Grants have funded 159 children's and/or youths' projects in the Lakeland Health region. Over $300,000 has gone into these

April 1 to 7: Emergency Medical Services Awareness Week

By Lakeland Injury Control Project Team
Lakeland Regional Health Authority

Dedicated to protecting public safety on our highways

Injury control not only involves injury prevention but also encompasses emergency medical services, acute care treatment and rehabilitation. The rapid response of our Emergency Medical Services teams is crucial to increasing chances of survival and / or minimizing long term disabilities. When an injury is serious or life threatening, EMS such as ambulance, police, fire, and 9-1-1 systems respond to remove the person from harm, resuscitate, stabilize and transport the victim to a health centre.

Hats off to our Emergency Medical Services Personnel!

In Alberta, in 1999, 400 fatalities, 20,000 injuries and 82,000 collisions occurred on our roadways. Eighty percent of the fatalities are on rural roads - four times as many drivers are killed in rural Alberta as in urban centres. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Traffic Services Division have recently developed a new mission statement to re-emphasize their commitment to public safety on Alberta's rural roads.

Analyses of fatal car crashes identify that failing to wear a seat belt, impaired driving and running of stop signs are all major causes of death and serious injury. In fact, only 68 percent of rural Albertans wear seat belts. Collision specialists tell us that 50 percent of the deaths in car crashes would have been prevented by using the vehicle seatbelts.

In an effort to reduce the carnage occurring on our roads, the RCMP are targeting seat belt and stop sign violations and impaired drivers. This spring the RCMP will be conducting education and awareness programs, followed by zero tolerance for seat belt and stop sign violations.

SO BUCKLE UP AND REMEMBER TO STOP, ROCK AND THEN ROLL.

(Data provided by Mission Possible and the RCMP)

Preventable injuries: They're killing us

"Injury is the leading killer of Albertans under 44 years of age: 1342 deaths, 2685 hospitalizations and 62,297 emergency room visits. With numbers like this, chance are you're at risk"

The Alberta Centre for Injury Control and Research is launching a video injury awareness campaign on April 24, 2001. Lakeland Regional Health Authority supports this initiative to promote injury awareness in our communities. Video spots are to be aired on CFRN, CITV (Global Television), CKEM (A Channel) and CBC. Watch for the videos April 24 - 26, May 3 - 5, 13 - 15, 24 - 26 and June 5 - 7. After April 24, check out www.stop-injury.ca to learn more about preventable injuries.

Accident. The "A-word"

It's a challenge to say it like it really is. There will always be some truly unpredictable and unpreventable incidents. Using the word "accident" implies that nothing could have been done to prevent the injury or fatality. However, most "accidents" are preventable.

Our challenge is to say it like it really is. Try:

crash	collision	T-bone
wreck	fender-bender	rear-ender
fell from	struck by	head-on collision
thrown from	equipment failed	suffered a fall
industrial death/injury		injured on the job
industrial incident		over-exertion
caught between		became entangled

Any injury is a tragedy. But with so many options, "accident" is starting to look like a cliché...

World stocks of wheat and barley down

The Canadian Wheat Board's PRO commentary of February 26, 2001 had some encouraging news for wheat and barley growers. World ending stocks for both of these crops have been dropping. For wheat, stocks are at a 40-year low and barley stocks have dropped for the last four years. This is the type of news that can lead to stronger prices.

"What looks like a promising scenario does not always turn out that way, however," says Ron Hockridge, crop specialist with Alberta Agriculture, Food and Rural Development, Wetaskiwin. "A bumper crop in some part of the world or a change in use patterns can turn things around in a hurry. Tighter supplies, however, do put people in a different mood. Since this year's crop has a bigger influence on total stocks buyers and sellers react more to changes that occur during the growing season."

Ending stocks may not be low enough to make big differences in seeding intentions. With higher costs of inputs this year, it will take a significant shift in prices to get many people excited about growing cereals. The reactions to weather changes may create some opportunities for pricing though. True marketers will lock in a price for a portion of their crops when the opportunity arises.

"To take advantage of weather markets, growers have to have a good handle on costs of production," adds Hockridge. "What it costs to grow a crop will not have any influence on the market, but it lets the farmer know when a profit can be locked in. There is always a temptation to hold on for higher prices until the market has passed its peak. Locking in a profit for part of the crop gives much more flexibility in how the rest is marketed."

what's NEWS at the LIBRARY?

New stories, new craft ideas and Easter Storytime

By Daphne Schnurer
Librarian

We have some great new children's titles this week:

Alexander the Great - a mouse who dreamed of being big, strong and courageous like his favorite superhero.

Milo and the Mysterious Island - a wonderfully illustrated book that allows you to choose your own ending.

Valentine - by Carol Carrick, who creates a tale with strong messages about love and caring, a wonderful story children will relate to and enjoy.

A Tale of Two Pandas by Adrienne Kennaway - they embark on a long and dangerous journey in the mountains searching for fresh bamboo.

Craft ideas for your children:

Look What You Can Make With Egg Cartons - over 90 pictured crafts and dozens of other ideas.

Crafts for All Seasons - just the right crafts to keep kids happily occupied with this year round book

And for all you parents who are into recycling:

Make It With Boxes - easy to follow instructions and diagrams make creating almost anything with boxes a snap!

Great Newspaper Crafts - Everyone has old newspapers lying around, why not put them to use?

Things to Make and Do for Easter - there's still time to do some of the great projects in this book!

Speaking of Easter, remember our special Easter Storytime on Friday, April 6 at 10:30 a.m. Join us for some extra special egg decorating!

Order your own!

An important reminder to all library patrons: you are able to order your own interlibrary loans from the comfort of your own home if you have access to the Internet. The web address is www.tracpac.ab.ca or you can use the library's computers at your own leisure. Some important things to remember when ordering your own interlibrary loan:

1. Current library membership
2. Check with the library staff to ensure you have a PIN number set up

3. Be sure to ask library staff for assistance if you have difficulties

4. Enter your entire bar code number from your membership card and your PIN number

5. Once you have located your book, check status to ensure it stays checked in

6. Allow one week for delivery. Also, if you order several books at once, they may all show up at the same time, so order only what you can read in a three-week period.

REMINDER - Easter Seniors Tea this afternoon at 2:00 p.m. Remember to wear your Easter bonnet!

Census paints clear picture of farming

On Tuesday, May 15, farm operators will be asked to update the profile of Canadian farm businesses by completing the 2001 Census of Agriculture questionnaire.

"Persons responsible for the day-to-day management decisions of an agricultural operation should report themselves as agricultural operators," says Kendall Olson, communications officer, 2001 Census of Agriculture, Statistics Canada. "In 2001, questions about organic farming and farmers' use of computers for business have been added to the standard questions on crops, livestock, agricultural labour, machinery and equipment, farm income and land management practices."

The Census of Agriculture puts the industry in focus for many groups, including individual operators, farm organizations, agribusiness, governments and academics.

Census data provide comprehensive information on the industry from the township or rural municipality level to the national level, and on topics ranging from crops to computers.

Census data are used to:

- * portray the viewpoints of farm operators to legislators, the media and the public
- * plan how and where to market agricultural products and services
- * evaluate the impact on agriculture of floods, droughts or other natural disasters
- * develop, implement and evaluate agricultural policies and programs, such as farm income safety nets or those pertaining to environmental sustainability or rural development

Information gathered by the census is so important, Statistics Canada is legally required to conduct a census every five years. By the same law, Statistics Canada is required to protect the information provided on Census of Agriculture forms.

For more information about the Census of Agriculture, visit the Statistics Canada Web site. On Tuesday, May 15th, count yourself in as part of Canada's farm community.

Community grants

projects, which account for 59% of the total funding awarded.

The usual Community Grant application process applies:

n Groups of three or more people, who reside in the Lakeland Region, are eligible to apply.

n The maximum grant is $4000.

n Funding for capital expenditures is limited to $300.

n For-profit and government groups may not apply for funding, but they can be partners in a project.

Applications will be accepted prior to April 30 and/or October 31, 2001.

Community Grant application brochures are available at health units, health centres, public libraries, municipal/town offices, Family and Community Support Services, Alberta Alcohol & Drug Abuse Commission, Alberta Human Resources, Mental Health, Sakaigun Asky Child and Family Services, Aboriginal administration, community services and friendship centres.

Special consideration will be given to projects that support, enhance or complement Lakeland health priorities.

CARD OF THANKS

A special thank you to all my friends and family from Frog Lake and surrounding districts who attended my surprise

40th Birthday Party on March 24, 2001

Especially to my sister Linda for the organization and all the people who assisted her with the task. And of course, thanks to my great friend Darrell who seems to stretch the truth a bit pertaining to my history. For all the cards and gifts I received, a huge thank you. If I didn't get a chance to talk with everyone and say a personal thank you at the party, your attendance and best wishes was very much appreciated. Thanks again everyone.
